SCIENCE AND SERVICE NEWS UPDATES*DEPRESSED TEENS WITH HISTORY OF ABUSE LESS LIKELY TO RESPOND TO COMBINATION TREATMENT

Adolescents with treatment-resistant depression who have a history of abuse—especially physical abuse—are less likely to respond to combination treatment than to medication alone, according to data from the NIMH-funded Treatment of Resistant Depression in Adolescents (TORDIA) study. The new study was published in the March 2011 issue of the Journal of the American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry. The researchers found that teens without a history of abuse had a higher response rate to combination therapy compared to medication-only therapy (63 percent vs. 37.6 percent). Those with a history of sexual abuse responded similarly to combination and medication-only therapy (48 percent vs. 42 percent). However, those with a history of physical abuse had a much lower response rate to combination therapy (18.4 percent) compared to medication-only (52.4 percent).

CDC STUDY FINDS SUICIDE RATES RISE AND FALL WITH ECONOMY: STUDY LOOKS AT SUICIDE RATES FROM 1928–2007

The overall suicide rate rises and falls in connection with the economy, according to a Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) study released online by the American Journal of Public Health. The study, "Impact of Business Cycles on the U.S. Suicide Rates, 1928–2007" is the first to examine the relationships between age-specific suicide rates and business cycles. The study found the strongest association between business cycles and suicide among people in prime working ages, 25-64 years old.

NEW RECOMMENDATIONS FOR REPORTING ON SUICIDE RELEASED

New recommendations for media reporting on suicide are now available for journalists covering the issue of suicide. The Recommendations for Media Reporting on Suicide was developed by the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention (AFSP), the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) and Suicide Awareness Voices of Education (SAVE), among others and is available at www.ReportingOnSuicide.org.

TREATMENTS SHOW PROMISE IN REDUCING AUTISM-RELATED BEHAVIORS, BUT SOME HAVE SIGNIFICANT SIDE EFFECTS

Some medical and behavioral treatments show promise for reducing certain behaviors in children with autism spectrum disorders (ASD), but more research is needed to assess the potential benefits and harms, according to a new report funded by the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality (AHRQ). The research results were published online in the journal Pediatrics. The comparative effectiveness report found that two commonly used medications—risperidone and aripiprazole—show benefit in reducing some behaviors, including emotional distress, aggression, hyperactivity and self-injury. However, these medicines are associated with significant side effects, such as rapid weight gain and drowsiness. The review found that no medications used for ASDs improved social behaviors or communication skills. The report also found that several medications show promise and should be studied further, but that secretin, which has been studied extensively, has shown no effectiveness.

SAMHSA INTRODUCES GUIDANCE CHANGING ITS BLOCK GRANT PROGRAMS TO REFLECT NEW OPPORTUNITIES PROVIDED BY PARITY, HEALTH REFORM AND EMERGING SCIENCE

SAMHSA announced a new approach for the Substance Abuse Prevention and Treatment Block Grant and the Community Mental Health Services Block Grant in the Federal Register. Under this new approach states and territories will have the opportunity to use block grant dollars for prevention, treatment, recovery supports, and other services that supplement services covered by Medicaid, Medicare, and private insurance.

NEW WARM LINE HELPS CLINICIANS TACKLE PATIENTS' SUBSTANCE ABUSE; NIH AND ASAM LAUNCH NEW SCREENING RESOURCES

A free, nationwide service was launched to help primary care providers seeking to identify and advise substance-abusing patients. The service, Physician Clinical Support System for Primary Care (PCSS-P), offers peer-to-peer mentorship and resources on incorporating screening and follow-up into regular patient care. PCSS-P is a project of the National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA) and the American Society of Addiction Medicine. NIDA also launched a quick screening tool to help health care providers identify these patients.

ANALYSIS OF OPIOID PRESCRIPTION PRACTICES FINDS AREAS OF CONCERN; NIH REPORT COULD LEAD TO IMPROVED STRATEGIES FOR PAIN MANAGEMENT

An analysis of national prescribing patterns shows that more than half of patients who received an opioid prescription in 2009 had filled another opioid prescription within the previous 30 days. This report also suggested potential opportunities for intervention aimed at reducing abuse of prescription opioids. NIDA researchers published results of this analysis in the April 6, 2011 issue of Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA).

NEARLY ALL AMERICAN ADULTS WITH UNTREATED ALCOHOL USE DISORDERS DON'T THINK THEY NEED TREATMENT

A new report based on a national survey shows that only 1.2 percent of the nation's more than 7.4 million adults aged 21 to 64 with an untreated alcohol abuse disorder perceive they could benefit from treatment. The SAMHSA report highlights the need to raise awareness about adult problem drinking, how to identify when someone has a problem, how to confront a problem drinker, and how to get help.

HHS ANNOUNCES PLAN TO REDUCE HEALTH DISPARITIES: NATIONAL PARTNERSHIP FOR ACTION LAUNCHES STRATEGY TO STRENGTHEN AND EXPAND COMMUNITY-LED EFFORTS TO ACHIEVE HEALTH EQUITY

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) launched two strategic plans aimed at reducing health disparities. The HHS Action Plan to Reduce Health Disparities outlines goals and actions HHS will take to reduce health disparities among racial and ethnic minorities. HHS also released the National Stakeholder Strategy for Achieving Health Equity, a common set of goals and objectives for public and private sector initiatives and partnerships to help racial and ethnic minorities and other underserved groups reach their full health potential. The strategy incorporates ideas, suggestions, and comments from thousands of individuals and organizations across the country.

COMPLEMENTARY AND ALTERNATIVE MEDICINE DIALOGUE LACKING BETWEEN PATIENTS, PROVIDERS; NEW SURVEY FROM AARP AND NCCAM FINDS THAT ALTHOUGH MANY PEOPLE 50+ USE CAM THEY OFTEN DO NOT INFORM THEIR HEALTH CARE PROVIDERS

Despite their high use of complementary and alternative medicine (CAM), Americans over the age of 50 often do not discuss CAM use with their health care providers, a survey indicates. The results were released by from American Association of Retired Persons and the NIH's National Center for Complementary and Alternative Medicine. Overall, 53 percent of respondents reported that they had used CAM at some point in their lives. Among those, 58 percent said they had discussed CAM with a health care provider. This dialogue is important because, while CAM is a part of health and wellness for many Americans, some CAM products can interact with conventional medicine.

NIMH WORKSHOP ON CHILD MALTREATMENT AND TRAUMA: INTEGRATING BIOLOGICAL, COGNITIVE, AND SOCIAL TRAJECTORIES OF DEVELOPMENT

This summary provides an overview of an NIMH multidisciplinary workshop convened to discuss the state of empirical knowledge about, and opportunities regarding, the psychological and biological consequences of maltreatment in children. Although the negative consequences of maltreatment are well documented, little is known about the biological mechanisms underlying the association between childhood maltreatment and later mental illness.

ALLIANCE FOR RESEARCH PROGRESS — FEBRUARY 18, 2011 MEETING

This summary provides an overview of NIMH's fourteenth meeting of the NIMH Alliance for Research Progress (Alliance). The Alliance meeting serves as an opportunity for participants, representatives from national voluntary organizations representing individuals and families affected by mental illness, to hear about exciting new research and advances in the field, to network with colleagues, and to interact directly with the NIMH Director. <http://www.nimh.nih.gov/outreach/alliance/alliance-report-february-2011/index.shtml>

NIH RADIO: BRAIN ACTIVITY PATTERNS IN ANXIETY-PRONE PEOPLE SUGGEST DEFICITS IN HANDLING FEAR

Anxiety as a personality trait appears to be linked to the functioning of two key brain regions involved in fear and its suppression, according to an NIMH-funded study. Differences in how these two regions function and interact may help explain the wide range of symptoms seen in people who have anxiety disorders.

NIH RESEARCH MATTERS

MORE YOUNG NEURONS EQUALS BETTER BRAIN FUNCTION

Scientists improved the cognitive ability of adult mice by boosting the survival of newborn neurons in the brain's memory hub. Enhancing the survival of these cells, when combined with exercise, produced antidepressant effects as well. The findings may open up new avenues for treating cognitive, mood and anxiety disorders.

HEALTH OBSERVANCE: NATIONAL AUTISM AWARENESS MONTH

APRIL 2011

In order to highlight the growing need for concern and awareness about autism, the Autism Society has been celebrating National Autism Awareness Month since the 1970s. The United States recognizes April as a special opportunity for everyone to educate the public about autism and issues within the autism community. <http://www.healthfinder.gov/nho/nho.asp?year=2011#5>

OBSERVANCE: MONTH OF THE MILITARY CHILD

---

Each year, the Department of Defense (DOD) recognizes military families by celebrating the Month of the Military Child throughout April. Service members with children across the nation can take this opportunity to spend time with their loved ones, while also learning about the importance of family resilience and readiness. Real Warriors has compiled information and resources to help servicemembers communicate with their family throughout the Month of the Military Child and the entire deployment cycle.

CALLS FOR PUBLIC INPUT

COMMENTS SOUGHT FOR AHRQ EFFECTIVE HEALTH CARE PROGRAM REPORTS

The AHRQ Effective Health Care Program encourages the public to participate in the development of its research projects. The Program uses these comments to help focus the research and ensure that the final comparative effectiveness reviews answer the most important questions that clinicians, patients, consumers, and policymakers have about a given treatment, test, or procedure. The Program is currently seeking comments for:

NOMINATIONS ARE NOW BEING ACCEPTED FOR THE 2011 VOICE AWARDS: CHAMPIONING THOSE WHOSE VOICES MAKE A DIFFERENCE FOR BEHAVIORAL HEALTH

SAMHSA is seeking nominations for consumers and peer leaders who have been leaders in educating the public about behavioral health. This year, SAMHSA is putting special emphasis on the impact of trauma and the significant effects it can have on individuals, families and friends, communities, and our Nation. Consideration is being given to consumers and peer leaders who have successfully advocated for the rights of trauma survivors and promoted the importance of trauma-informed care. All nominations must be submitted by Friday, April 22, 2011. To nominate an eligible consumer/peer leader(s), visit the Voice Awards web site at www.voiceawards.samhsa.gov.

ONC ANNOUNCES OPEN PUBLIC COMMENT PERIOD ON THE FEDERAL HEALTH IT STRATEGIC PLAN: 2011-2015

The Office of the National Coordinator for Health Information Technology (ONC) announced an open public comment period on the Federal Health IT Strategic Plan: 2011-2015. The Plan reflects ONC's strategy, developed in collaboration with other federal partners, over the next five years for realizing Congress and the Administration's health IT agenda. Despite evidence of the benefits of the use of health IT, today only 25 percent of physician offices and 15 percent of hospitals take advantage of electronic health records. Two major pieces of legislation, enacted over the past two years, are dramatically changing the health IT landscape and providing an opportunity to modernize the way care is delivered and improve the health of all Americans – the Health Information Technology for Economic and Clinical Health Act and the Affordable Care Act. The Plan, originally published in 2008, is being updated to reflect the significant impact of these two pieces of legislation. The deadline for comments is April 22, 2011.

2011 SCIENCE AND SERVICE AWARDS WILL HONOR IMPLEMENTATION OF EVIDENCE-BASED MENTAL HEALTH AND SUBSTANCE ABUSE INTERVENTIONS

SAMHSA has issued a call for applications for its 2011 Science and Service Awards, a national program that recognizes community-based organizations and coalitions that have shown exemplary implementation of evidence-based mental health and substance abuse interventions.

Awards will be made in each of the five categories: substance abuse prevention; treatment of substance abuse and recovery support services; mental health promotion; treatment of mental illness and recovery support services; and co-occurring disorders. To be eligible for an award, an organization must have successfully implemented a recognized evidence-based intervention. Examples include those that are published in the scientific literature and/or appear on a federal and/or state registry of evidence-based interventions. Applications must be emailed by May 13, 2011.

The Outreach Partnership Program is a nationwide outreach initiative of the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH) that enlists state and national organizations in a partnership to help close the gap between mental health research and clinical practice, inform the public about mental illnesses, and reduce the stigma and discrimination associated with mental illness. For more information about the program please visit: <http://www.nimh.nih.gov/outreach/partners>. To subscribe to receive the Update every two weeks, go to: <http://www.nimh.nih.gov/outreach/partnership-program/subscribe-to-the-update.shtml>

The information provided in the Update is intended for use by NIMH Outreach Partners, National Partners and their associates for the express purpose of exchanging information that may be useful in the development of state and local mental health outreach, information, education and partnership programs.
